the defendant would have accepted the government's offer." Gonzalez, 112 F.3d at 993 n.11. Here, Mr. Phelps' plea agreement contained a provision stating that the agreement was contingent on the court's acceptance of the parties' recommended sentence of fifty-seven months' imprisonment. Aplee. Br. at 5. The record is conflicting as to whether Mr. Phelps informed the district court that he would have accepted the government's plea offer had he known of it. On the one hand, Mr. Phelps testified at the plea hearing that he did not remember discussing the plea agreement with the district court. Tr. at 11. On the other hand, the court's September 4, 2008, docket entry indicates that Mr. Phelps requested a plea agreement, but the agreement contained a provision for a prison sentence of 57 months. Id., Vol. II at 83-87. This entry also indicates that Mr. Phelps agreed to the plea agreement and, in a signed and notarized affirmation, affirmed that the 77a5ca646e
